

National Public School Kengeri, Bengaluru Report on Constitutional Day

“Constitution is the soul of our nation, lets honour and uphold its pride”

Constitution Day, also known as ‘Samvidhan Divas’, is celebrated every year on November 26th in India to honour the adoption of the Indian Constitution. On this day in 1949, the Constituent Assembly of India, led by Dr. B.R. Ambedkar, formally adopted the Constitution, which came into effect on January 26, 1950. This day is a reminder of the significance of the Constitution in shaping the democratic framework of India.

The students of National Public School, Kengeri celebrated Constitution Day with great enthusiasm and respect, on 7th December 2024. The students assiduously participated in the program. A series of educational and entertaining activities were conducted to engage students in understanding the significance of the Constitution. The program commenced with a fictional society where there was no rule, no guiding law, and no shared understanding of justice. The people of this society, though living together, were constantly in conflict. This made a group of perceptive people to form a constituent assembly for drafting a set of rules that would govern all people equally. The result of their efforts led to the creation of the Constitution of India—a document that serves as the supreme law of the land.

The program further highlighted the importance of all the six fundamental rights that are enshrined in the constitution and each right was shown through various performances. Right to Equality was emphasised by presenting a captivating street play. Right against exploitation was showcased by a thoughtful dance drama. Cultural and educational rights was shown in the form of a mesmerising dance performance. Right to religion was depicted by an impactful speech. The event concluded with a skit that showed the profound importance of constitutional amendments in the changing society.

As the celebrations came to a close, the Vice Principal, Ms. Suman Singh, delivered a concluding address, emphasizing the importance of remembering the struggles of the past and appreciating the stability and justice the Constitution brings. The event left students with a deeper appreciation for the rights and freedoms they enjoy, as well as the responsibility they bear to uphold the values of justice, equality, and fraternity, which are enshrined in the Constitution.
